

After School--A 'Fiesta'

THE END of class is a signal for chatter. The White House Spanish-Portuguese Study Group is no exception to this rule. Yesterday members literally had a "fiesta" after their final class of the season.

Honor guest at the 5 p. m. party was Senora Maria Concepcion Chavez, chairman of the Inter-American Commission of Women. The fiesta was also an occasion for a reunion of the group where the "once a member, always a member" rule is observed.

Receiving with Señora de Chavez in the airy Hall of Americas at the Pan American Union were Mrs. Clarence Norton Goodwin, founder of the study group; Senora de Castro, wife of the Ambassador of El Salvador, who is chairman of the Organization of American States; Senora de Enciso-Velloso, wife of the Ambassador of Paraguay, and Mrs. John Caspar Dreier, wife of the United States Ambassador to the Pan American Union.

Youngest lady to arrive for the party was 8-month-old Arden Osherman who came on the arm of her nurse to see her mother, Mrs. Jack Osherman, and friends. Blonde Arden wore a yellow organdy dress and carried a yellow stuffed kitten—but wore no shoes.

AT two long tables filled with cookies, cakes and tea sandwiches sat the wives of Latin diplomats, each taking a turn pouring with a woman from the United States as partner. At one table tea and coffee were served at another a white punch.

Favorite costume for the ladies on yesterday's warm afternoon was a silk summer suit—but a number of bright cotton prints were seen. A cool-looking black and white print topped with a wide-brimmed black straw was the choice of Mrs. George Gordon Moore who was there with Mrs. Pell Miller.

Others there were Mrs. J. Lawton Collins, Mrs. Charles Cabell, Mrs. Howard A. Craig, Mrs. Harold Burton, Mrs. Tom Clark, who served as a hostess, Mrs. Dennis Chavez, Mrs. Irving Ives, Mrs. Struve Hensel, Mrs. Emerson Bigelow, Ivy Baker Priest, and guest of honor's daughter, Marcia Mercedes Chavez, a student at American University.
